OFFICE, 25 & 27 Fourteenth St.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 1, 1874.

For Congress—First District,

GENERAL NATHAN GOFF,

of Harrison.

For the State Senate—

DR. THOMAS E. LOGAN.

For House of Delegates—

WM. F. PETERSON,

R. B. DOVERNER,

HENRY WALLACE,

JOS. WADDLE.

The Desolated South.

On Tuesday evening of this week Senator

LOGAN, of Illinois, addressed a large audience at Indianapolis on the political issues of the day. He gave utterance to many excellent sentiments, and rightly extolled the Republican party as heretofore steadfastly maintaining the "one principle of universal liberty and equality before the law." He justly boasts of the achievements of that party in promoting and advancing the beneficent work of freedom and exact justice to all men. His liberal interpretation of the Civil Rights bill is especially commended to the notice of those of our Democratic brethren who see in that bill all manner of evil things.

He declares that that bill does not force mixed schools upon the South, but merely gives each one an equal right to education.

There is one part of Senator LOGAN's speech, however, that is justly open to severe criticism, and that is where he lays all the blame of the present disordered state of affairs in the South on the heads of Southerners who refused to accept the terms of the war. The Senator himself admits in a previous portion of his speech that the KELLLOGG election was a fraud.

Who committed the fraud, KELLLOGG or

McKENRY? The northern carpet-bag-gers, or the unreconstructed Southerners?

Mr. LOGAN seems not to hide the fact that the fraud was committed by KELLLOGG and his friends. Certainly then the former rebels of Louisiana are not responsible for this infamous wrong and usurpation.

The Senator declares in another passage of his speech, where he is answering the question, "Who are the carpetbaggers?" "They are the ex-soldier boys in blue, who went South to fight, and, liking the country, stayed there."

The boys in blue who went South to fight indignantly reject any such foul imputation. The thieving, plundering carpetbaggers of the South, robbers of a defenseless and conquered people, need claim no kind of the brave boys in blue. They are not related to them either in act or spirit.

The boys in blue fought for the Union of these United States, and in order to secure that object they are just as willing to lay down the bitterness and hate engendered by the late strife as they then were to lay down their lives for the overthrow of the slave oligarchy. The carpet-baggers are as a class, unprincipled political adventurers, who followed in the wake of the Union army, or crawled out of their holes after the war was over, and went South to lord it over a subjugated people. Doubtless there have been good men among them, but as a class they have shown themselves to be bitter, implacable, unscrupulous enemies to order and good government. The Southern people have greatly sinned, and they have also been sorely chastised. Doubtless they did not accept with any great degree of cheerfulness the inevitable results of the war. Perhaps they have not, as readily as they might have done, adapted themselves to the new social and political era brought about by that war. But while they have sinned, they have also been sinned against. Surely their punishment has been great enough for their crime. Is it necessary now to tantalize them? Shall we uphold, defend and palliate their oppressors? Shall we force upon them a fraudulent government? Shall we refuse them fair elections? Has not the time come when the era of fraternal ity and good will? In 1868 the candidate of the Republican party said in his letter of acceptance, "Let us have peace." The country responded,

"Amen." The country thus demands peace. When shall we have it? Not until Northern politicians cease making war speeches, reviving all the bloody hate of the past; not until Southern discriminate between carpet-baggers and real statesmen; not until both sections shall reduce to practice the best immortal declaration of the martyred LINCOLN:

"With malice toward none, and charity for all, let us strive to do the right as God gives us to see the right."

PATRICK, the philosopher of the Moundville National, has found in the patent inside a source of profit and a balm for those who suffer from an un-appetitive public. He thus discourages his Wheeling country contemporary:

"The new Martinsville Ventilator complains of not being self-sustaining. Throw away your old fashioned sheet and get a patent inside. A man is a fool who will print two sides to a paper in West Virginia. Your country will sustain a paper.

Take our advice and you will soon thrive."

A PENNSYLVANIAN bet $6,000 that he could eat fifty quarts of peanuts in twenty-five hours. He got away with forty, and then the undertaker got away with him.
